

RABIES LEAVE MARKS

Autopsy Proves the Cause of Brooklyn Man's Death.

SPINAL CORD IS AFFECTED

Examination is made as result of rumors that Marsh died as the result of fear and copious administration of opiates—Son Takes Precautionary Treatment.

New York, May 21.—Because of representations coming from a few individuals who constitute themselves a semi-medical society, Coroner Brewer, of Brooklyn, after consultation with District Attorney Clark, ordered an autopsy to be performed to-day upon the body of William H. Marsh, the Brooklyn man who died from rabies on Wednesday.

Dr. Ira von Giesen, of the city laboratory of research, who assisted the coroner's physician, Emil Hartung, in the autopsy, reported concurrently with the coroner's physician that Mr. Marsh had died as the result of an undoubted case of rabies and the administration of opiates by the physicians attending him played no part in the cause of death.

Dr. von Giesen's opinion was so sure that a grisly incident of the autopsy led him to take immediate measures of self-protection. While he was removing a portion of the backbone of the dead man for the purpose of studying the condition of the spinal cord, the physician scratched his wrist with the edge of one of the vertebrae. He told his fellow-physician that he would take no chances and that to-day he would begin the twenty-three days' Pasteur treatment for the prevention of rabies in his own laboratory.

Signs All Characteristic.
The examination of Mr. Marsh's body brought out all of the characteristic post-mortem signs of rabies. The lesion in the medulla oblongata and the diseased condition of the spinal cord, always brought about by hydrophobia, were found existing in the body of the man who had died under the rabies diagnosis.

Since pseudo-rabies is never fatal of itself, and by its nature leaves no marks of change in the bodily tissue, the contention urged upon District Attorney Clark that Mr. Marsh's death had been caused by fear and the administration of drugs was found to be absolutely baseless.

Miss Edna Thompson, the young woman who works in the office of Mr. Marsh's manufacturer, and who handled his wounded bulldog on the same day that Mr. Marsh is supposed to have become infected with the rabies virus, is suffering now from nothing so much as the ill-advised ministrations of her friends, according to the physician who has been giving her the precautionary Pasteur treatment for the past four days.

The tragic death of her employer and her natural nervousness have been played upon by her until she is suffering from nervous collapse, but nothing more serious.

Son Also Takes Precaution.
Ramsey Marsh, son of the dead man, who handled the dog at the same time that his father became inoculated, is also taking the Pasteur treatment. He is doing it as a matter of precaution also.

Since the facts of Mr. Marsh's sudden seizure on Monday last and subsequent death have become known, there has been a general hysteria of rabies, according to William L. Wheeler, of the Pasteur Institute. All day Wednesday and to-day from 9 o'clock until 3 in the afternoon, there was a steady stream of people hurrying to the institute, driven by mad fear that some trivial scratch they had received from the family cat or puppy during weeks or months past, had doomed them to the fate of the Brooklyn man. All of these numerous ones were reassured, some a bit roughly when they insisted that they were going to die.

Dr. Wheeler said to-day that timid folks should have some definite assurance that any bite from a household pet or other animal did not necessarily forebode death by rabies. Simple observations on the part of the one bitten would serve to allay most fears he said.

The funeral of Mr. Marsh will be held Saturday.

MAE WOOD LANDS BEHIND THE BARS

say as she took it. Once she made some remark concerning Justice O'Connell, to which Lynch replied that he thought the justice an eminently fair man. To this Miss Wood replied:

"I suppose he is. I guess he was as fair to me as any other judge would have been under the circumstances."

At the Tombs Lynch handed the commitment and his prisoner over to Matron O'Brien, in charge of the female division of the Tombs. Miss Wood was then searched and her pedigree taken.

There she was taken to a cell in the lower or ground floor. As she was locked in, she remarked to the matron that she expected to be released before night, and that she was awaiting the arrival of her counsel, Lee, with a bondsman. At a late hour she was still a prisoner.

Shortly after her commitment, Assistant District Attorney Nott, who was acting district attorney in the absence of Mr. Jerome, received from Justice O'Connell a written communication, in which the justice informed the district attorney of the action he had taken and instructed Mr. Nott further that bail in the case could only be accepted by a Supreme Court justice. Mr. Jerome himself turned up in a little while and took charge of the case.

Jerome Interested in Case.

The district attorney said that he would do everything in his power to bring the charge against Miss Wood before the grand jury as soon as possible, and it may be that her case will be considered by the grand jury to-morrow. If she is indicted, Mr. Jerome said her trial will be speedy, as he believes that such indictments for perjury by the plaintiff in a civil suit should be heard and determined without loss of time.

The imprisonment of Miss Wood marks the end of her civil career as the persecutor of Thomas Collier Platt. Ever since October, 1903, when the senior U. S. Senator from the State of New York married Mrs. Lillian Janeway, this woman has been bombarding the press and bothering the courts of many States and cities with her circumstantial tale of how he had married her secretly at the Fifth Avenue Hotel on November 9, 1901. At the same time, she has attacked Mrs. Platt with a vigor and ferocity that could only have been begotten of the jealousy that gave expression to the proverb: "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

OPPOSES OUR DISARMING.

Gen. King Startles Rest of Peace Advocates at Lake Mohonk.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 21.—Gen. Horatio C. King, of Brooklyn, caused a slight frost at the international arbitration conference to-day when he declared that some of the aims of the advocates of peace were "pipe dreams," that, if only because of internal conditions, it would be utterly impossible to disarm or reduce the army or navy of the United States to-day.

Committee reports and other speakers were more encouraging to the advocates of peace.

James Bryce, the British Ambassador, in a letter expressing regret at his inability to attend, called attention to the several arbitration treaties signed by the United States in the past year. He wrote: "It now remains for the people and the press of the countries that have entered into these treaties to see that full effect is given to them, and that if any cause of dispute should arise there shall be no disposition to stir up angry feelings, no attempt to evade the obligation to resort to that means of a peaceful settlement which arbitration provides."

AIRSHIP CARRIES THREE MEN

Knabenshue's Dirigible Craft, at Toledo, Establishes New Record.

Controls Huge Gas Bag at Will and Sails to Entrance of Canavias Home.

Toledo, May 21.—A. Roy Knabenshue established a new world's record to-day when he successfully flew his big new airship, carrying himself and two assistants with him.

Never before has an air craft, that was dirigible, been propelled and guided through the air in America carrying other than the driver. But when the test was made this new big bird rose and traveled as wonderfully with three men on the frame as did the first airship, Toledo, which first started Toledo, and later New York, by driving up and down Broadway.

When she arose, Knabenshue, at the wheel, started the engine, driving the propeller at slow speed. Slowly at first and more rapidly as it gained momentum, the big bag, with its human freight, kept on up and up still higher till it was several hundred feet in the air. After a few minutes, by means of the aeroplanes, Knabenshue descended within a few feet of the earth, and heading the nose straight for the entrance of his canvas home, he delighted the thousands of people who had gathered by ascending along almost on the top of the earth at a very fair clip till he had reached the canvas, where he stopped the engine.

This flight was made for the purpose of testing his engine and its position on the frame. The test dispels all doubts as to the practicability, as with it he was able to lower and raise the nose of the car at will.

FLEET NOW IN PUGET SOUND

Vessels Anchor at Several Ports and Are Royally Welcomed.

Admiral Sperry, on the Connecticut, Enters Bellingham Bay—Reaches Seattle Saturday.

Seattle, Wash., May 21.—The Atlantic fleet is now in Puget Sound waters. Both divisions of the first squadron are at Bellingham, three ships at Port Angeles, two at Port Townsend, and three have gone to the Puget Sound Navy Yard, at Bremerton.

At 12:30 last night, in a heavy mist, the fleet entered the Straits of Juan de Fuca. At 5:30 this morning the fleet passed Port Crescent. At 6:30 the fleet passed Port Angeles.

A short stop was made there to take on a pilot for the flagship Connecticut. The battle ships Missouri, Ohio, Louisiana, and Virginia steamed into the harbor at Port Angeles and there anchored. At 11:30 the battle ships Illinois and Kearsarge dropped anchor at Port Townsend, the battle ships Nebraska, Wisconsin, and Kentucky passing on up the sound to the Puget Sound Navy Yard at Bremerton.

At 12:30 the first squadron, with Rear Admiral Sperry at the helm, the bridge of the Connecticut, anchored at Bellingham, and behind him came the other battle ships of the division. As the fleet came around Dead Man's Point, entering Bellingham Bay, it was greeted with the admiral's salute of thirteen guns, and when it came to anchor Mayor J. P. Dematos and the Bellingham reception committee boarded the Connecticut and formally presented to the admiral the keys to the city, at the same time submitting to him the reception programme for his suggestions as to its amendment. Port Angeles, Bremerton, and Port Townsend are all entertaining the naval visitors to-night.

On Saturday the whole fleet will re-assemble at Port Townsend, pass a review around the bay, and proceed to Seattle, arriving here about 3 p. m.

SHOOTING MAY CAUSE FEUD.

Kentuckian's Friends Expected to Seek Revenge.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Jonesville, Va., May 21.—Henderson Day, of Harlan County, Ky., was shot and killed at Pennington Gap yesterday by John Patton, sergeant of the town, and his son, a deputy officer.

Day, it is alleged, was shooting a revolver in the town, and the officers undertook to arrest him. The officers fired upon Day.

It is reported that a cousin of Day has gone to Kentucky to inform the father of the dead man, and a battle is expected in Pennington upon the arrival of Kentucky relatives.

Killing Was Unprovoked.

Dallas, Tex., May 21.—After hearing four witnesses, three of them observers of the tragedy, Justice Williams to-day remanded Tom Kent to jail without bail for the killing of Richard J. Beall, brother of Congressman Beall, in this city last Monday night. The eyewitnesses swore that Beall was unarmed and had given no offense at the time.

GALE BRINGS DEATH

Terrible Storm Strikes Minnesota and North Dakota.

NORTHWESTERN CITIES SUFFER

Wires All Go Down Before Fifty-two-mile-an-hour Wind—Many Alarms of Fire in Minneapolis and St. Paul—Streets in Small Towns Raging Torrents—City in Darkness.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 21.—A north-west gale, bringing with it great damage, death for at least one and serious injury for several persons, fell upon Minneapolis and surrounding territory to-day.

Wires went down in all parts of the town before a 52-mile an hour wind, causing no less than eighteen alarms of fire in a few hours, and a steady and excessive rain made total precipitation of 3.3. A long chapter of accidents, many of them painful and at least one with probably fatal results, followed in the wake of the storm, which was one of the most severe of the year.

St. Paul suffered to the extent of several thousand dollars from fires caused by crossed electric wires and lightning. Many chimneys were blown down, the city's drainage system was temporarily impaired, and basements in the business section were thoroughly flooded.

At Owatonna, near here, during the terrific electric storm, lightning struck Kelly Hall, the boys' dormitory of Pillsbury Academy. The building is a four-story one. The lightning struck the fire escape at the roof, running along the iron and entering a third-story room by one of the iron braces. There was a bed against the wall at that place and the lightning set the mattress on fire. The flames caused little damage.

Village of New Ulm Struck.

The village of New Ulm was struck by one of the most severe storms in recent years yesterday. From early morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, a dust storm from the south, travelling at the rate of fifty miles an hour, passed over the section.

Despite the violent air current, residents were sweltering, and shortly after 4 o'clock a terrible electric storm, accompanied by a high wind and hail, terrified the people for more than an hour. Considerable damage was done to the small grain by hail alone.

Shortly after 6 o'clock the streets were raging torrents. The downpour resembled a cloudburst. The Mississippi River, which was in flood, rose several feet in some places. The lowlands are inundated.

The City in Darkness.
The city was enveloped in darkness for several hours during the storm.

At Wahpeton, N. Dak., Campbell Bros.' main show tent blew down while the performance was in progress, and two persons were badly injured.

Fully 2,000 people were in the tent at the time. Rain had been falling at intervals all through the day, and soon after the performance began heavy rain began to fall, accompanied by wind.

Large numbers of people left the tent, fearing danger.

At about 4 o'clock a cyclone lifted the tent, and there was a wild scramble for safety.

SNOWSTORM IN THE WEST.

Reaches Depth of Three Feet in Many Places in Wyoming.

Sheridan, Wyo., May 21.—Snow, which in many places reached a depth of three feet, fell all day Wednesday and last night.

It is a damp snow, and did great damage in many places. Fruit will be ruined and the loss of live stock great. It is the worst spring snowstorm for twenty-five years, and extends over parts of Montana.

Lincoln, Neb., May 21.—Northwestern Nebraska experienced a heavy snowstorm last night. Damage to early crops will result.

Ottumwa, Iowa, May 21.—Southern Iowa was hit to-day by a terrific windstorm, which, at Albia, assumed the form of a tornado. The Grant School in Albia was wrecked and the roof crashed through to the rooms below just fifteen minutes before assembly time. Pupils and teachers escaped injury. J. M. Taylor was instantly killed by a heavy corn crib, which the wind picked up and dropped upon him.

Butte, Mont., May 21.—Heavy losses of sheep and lambs are reported from Dawson County by a blizzard that began yesterday. The snow lies two feet deep on the level and five and six feet in the drifts.

Salina, Kans., May 21.—Mrs. Fred Grothe was killed and several persons were more or less injured in a tornado which struck Lincoln County last night. Several houses were destroyed, a number were unroofed, and many barns were blown down.

KENTUCKY ALL FOR BRYAN.

Ex-Gov. Beckham a Candidate for Delegate—Ship So Is McCreary.

Lexington, Ky., May 21.—There will be no contest in the State convention here June 11 as to instructions.

Instructions will be given for Bryan for President, but there will be a fight for places on the Kentucky delegation.

The friends of ex-Gov. Beckham will try for an endorsement in the nomination of W. J. Bryan, who ended in his defeat by six Democrats voting against him, and then putting him at the head of the delegation.

The friends of Senator McCreary think he should have the biggest vote, since, they claim, he could have been elected Senator had Beckham not taken advantage of him, securing the nomination two years in advance of the election. It is safe to predict, however, that both Beckham and McCreary will be delegates.

Just who the others will be cannot be predicted at this time. W. B. Haldeman, of Louisville, will try for one of the places, and Representative Ollie James will likely be in the race.

Pope Praises Americans.

Rome, May 21.—Archbishop Messmer, of Milwaukee, Wis., to-day presented to the Pope about 200 German-American Catholics who are members of the Federation of German Catholics of America. His Holiness, in addressing the pilgrims, praised the efforts of the federation to uphold Catholicism in a foreign country. He gave the party his blessing.

Insular Police Need Arms.

San Juan, P. R., May 21.—Gov. Post, who is now in the United States, is making arrangements for the purchase of arms and equipment for the insular police. The Federal government having withdrawn the arms and equipment which have been used by the police for several years.

CLEAR THE COMPLEXION OVERNIGHT

Pimples, Rash, Eruptions, &c. Quickly Eradicated by New Skin Remedy.

Since its discovery one year ago, post-um, the new skin remedy, has, in its extraordinary accomplishments, exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the eminent specialist who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of eczema and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of years' standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin affections, such as pimples, rash, herpes, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, &c., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. A muddy or sallow complexion is noticeably improved by a single application. Those who use post-um for these minor skin troubles can now avail themselves of the special 50-cent package, recently adapted to meet such needs. Both the 50-cent package and the regular $2 jar may now be obtained in Washington at Ogram's, O'Donnell's, and other leading drug stores.

Samples for experimental purposes may be had free of charge by writing direct to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

SIXTY KILLED IN A WRECK

Scores of Pilgrims to Shrine Injured in Belgian Disaster.

Train on Sliding Near Antwerp Escaped from Rear by a Fast Express.

Antwerp, May 21.—A fast express train from this city telescoped a special loaded with pilgrims at Contich, six miles southeast of here to-day, killing sixty and injuring more than a hundred. The pilgrims were on their way to a local shrine.

The train that was run into had been side-tracked at Contich to allow the express to pass. The switchman either forgot to replace the switch or the switch did not act. Hence the express ran into the rear end of the other train, which was unusually full of workmen, soldiers, and a party of pilgrims bound for a shrine at Liepse, near Lierre.

The heads of three decapitated soldiers were pressed so deep into the earth that it was necessary to dig them out with spades. The bodies of some little white-frosted pilgrim girls were found covered with blood and blackened with coal dust.

Several of the injured have since died. Little remains of the train that was run into except bent metal and splintered wood, strewn with fragments of clothing. The switchman has disappeared. His arrest has been ordered. The total number of victims is not known, but probably the report that sixty were killed and a hundred injured is not exaggerated.

BRYAN REGRETS "BOSS RULE"

Guffy Victory in Pennsylvania Leads to Caustic Comment.

Nebraska Disappointed at Failure of Democrats at Harrisburg to Instruct for Him.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 21.—William J. Bryan came to Harrisburg to-day in anything but an amiable frame of mind over the action of the Democratic State convention yesterday in voting down the proposition to endorse him for the Presidential nomination and adopting a platform without a mention of his name.

Bryan had been led to believe that the Democrats of Pennsylvania could scarcely wait until an opportunity came to pledge the State delegation to him. His friends of the Bryan League had assured him of their ability to dominate the convention, and, judging from his manner to-day, he really was bitterly surprised and disappointed that they had failed to make good.

"The result indicates that at least four delegates-at-large will be in the hands of a political boss," he declared with much warmth concerning the convention.

"But," he added vehemently, "the bosses will not control the Denver convention. The votes in the State show that."

HEFLIN LEADS TICKET.

Alabama Representative Policy Heavy Vote as Bryan Delegate.

Alabama members of Congress received telegrams yesterday, telling them that revised returns of the Alabama primaries show that Representative Heflin, who was elected one of the delegates-at-large to the Denver convention and instructed for the nomination of W. J. Bryan, led the Bryan ticket in the primary.

Some of Mr. Heflin's supporters feared that his shooting the negro, Lundy, would result in his being near the bottom of the ticket, but the returns show that he was the strongest candidate before the Alabama Democrats.

GUNNESS VERDICT IN

Coroner Says Woman's Body Is that of Murderess.

OTHERS BELIEVE HER HIDING

Mystery of Indiana Tragedies as Far from Solution as Ever—Other Victims Sought, but Careful Search Fails to Reveal More Bodies in the Basement of Ruined Home.

Lafayette, May 21.—Following the filing of his official report and verdict which declares the charred bones found in the fire ruins to be that of Mrs. Belle Guinness, Coroner Mack to-day completed his report and verdict, finding that the three bodies found in the debris were those of her children. The coroner finds that the death of Mrs. Guinness and her children was due to "felonious homicide, the perpetrator of which is not known."

Coroner Mack's verdict on the bodies that were taken from the graveyard will declare Mrs. Guinness to be the murderer or accomplice in the cases of Andrew Heiglein, Ole Budberg, and Jennie Olson, and of the other unidentified victims. This verdict will also be filed to-morrow.

To-day has been devoid of sensations in the Guinness tragedy. There were no gawdies finds, no bodies taken from the private cemetery, no identifications of skeletons were made at the two city morgues, but the morrow, however, may bring results.

To-day the floor in the cellar of the charnel house was torn out and excavations made to a depth of three feet, but no additional bodies were found.

Duquesne Man Missing.

John E. Hunter, of Duquesne, Pa., will probably prove to be one of the victims of the murderess. He left his home November 23, 1907, for a Northern Indiana town, as he told his family, to marry a wealthy widow. He took with him a large sum of money, telling his daughters that he did not know when he would return. To-day a daughter, Mrs. Kulers, of McKeesport, Pa., appealed to Coroner Mack to answer her prayer by finding her father, who is fifty-two years old, dead or alive, at the same time expressing the fear that he went to his death in the charnel house.

George Williams, of Waukegan, Ill., and Ludwig Stoll, of Mount Pleasant, Pa., were also reported to the authorities to-day as having left their homes for the port of missing men. When Williams left home it was with the statement that when he returned it would be with a wife.

Stoll, also a victim of the matrimonial bureau, left a fine farm of several hundred acres, in Pennsylvania, to manage, as he termed it, a wealthy widow in the West. Williams' farm was sold a few days after the flashing of the news of the Guinness tragedy. Disposition was made in the same way of the Stoll farm. Pennsylvania relatives of the missing men will come to this city to view the skeleton frames in the improvised morgue, but with little hope of identification, owing to the decomposed condition of the bodies which have yet to be buried in Potter's field.

Seeking Her Brother.

Mrs. B. F. Carling, of Chicago, says her brother left home a year ago telling a friend he was going to meet a widow with lots of money. She will be a visitor at the morgue. Despite the assertion of the dentist, Dr. Norton, who filled the teeth of Mrs. Guinness with gold, that his fillings have been found in the ruins at the house, at least one of the people in and about Lafayette believe that the arch-murderess is still alive and is hiding.

After many days of investigation by fifty special newspaper correspondents, half a dozen Pinkerton detectives, the entire staff of the sheriff's office at Lafayette, and the police force of the town, the terrible series of crimes perpetrated at the brick house on the hill remains as unsolved as it was in the beginning, and there are still 100 mysteries in the Guinness tragedies.

RAYNER IS AGAIN FOILED.

Stewart Resolution Goes Over, Probably Until Next Session.

The Rayner resolution requesting the President to grant a court of inquiry in the case of Col. William F. Stewart, of the Coast Artillery, the "army exile" at Fort Grant, Ariz., came before the Senate, in regular order, yesterday, and Senator Rayner promptly requested a vote.

Senator Warren, of Wyoming, met the request with an emphatic speech, demanding reference of the resolution to the Military Affairs Committee, of which he is chairman. Mr. Warren declared that his committee had not neglected the former resolution presented by Mr. Rayner and was not trying to stifle the inquiry. He characterized Mr. Rayner's speech as "a vicious attack on the President." If the resolution passed, any officer of the army who disliked his station could invoke the aid of a Senator to reopen his case.

"All this talk about the 'exile' and 'punishment' is sentimentalism," said Mr. Warren.

Mr. Rayner declared, in reply, that he was not criticizing either the President or the Military Affairs Committee. He asked simple justice, the same as is extended to every criminal charged with an offense. Mr. Rayner insisted that the case was not the usual one of a military detail. It was a "form of punishment."

Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, and Mr. Rayner got into a colloquy, and the Senator from Illinois expressed the opinion that Mr. Rayner didn't make an argument, but a speech.

"Probably the Senator from Illinois don't know an argument when he hears it," suggested Mr. Rayner. Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, demanded the regular order, and the gavel of the Vice President rapped Mr. Hopkins into his seat. Senator Beveridge then defended the action of the President in the case, and Senator Lodge was about to follow suit when, at 2 o'clock, the resolution was displaced by the unfinished business. Senator Lodge endeavored to have an order made that the resolution should come up to-day by unanimous consent. Mr. Rayner said he would object, unless he could continue his speech.

Homing Pigeon Found.

Cumberland, Md., May 21.—A homing pigeon, evidently lost, and perhaps some years ago, alighted at Perry H. Westfall's poultry farm, on Beverly Pike, near Elkins, W. Va. The bird has only one leg, its right. A band around the right leg is numbered "3372-19-04." The pigeon is pure white.
